Roosevelt Vetoed Congress' Bill to Outlaw Subsidies

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP)—Declaring it to be "an inflation bill," which would set the soldier, worker, and unorganized consumer "at war with the farmer," President Roosevelt vetoed today a bill which would extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation and also junk the administration's plan to whittle down food prices by subsidizing processors.

"The measure now stands, this is an inflation bill, a high cost of living bill, a food shortage bill," he said in his veto message to Congress.

"No matter how this measure is interpreted," the President said, "it will have a devastating effect upon our economy and our war effort about which I believe the Congress and the American people ought clearly to be warned."

THREE-PART WARNING

He put this warning into three parts. "This bill blacks out the program to reduce the cost of living... it completely outlaws the price reductions in the price of meat and butter which are instituted in order to help get the cost of food down."

Premier Says New Members Are Added to Post-War Group

Two new members, Dr. Robert Newton, president, University of Alberta, and Harold E. Tanner, president, Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, have been appointed to the Alberta Post-War Reconstruction Committee.

Premier Ernest Manning announced Friday.

The premier, in making the announcement, said the government recognized the need of having representation of returned men on the committee, as all post-war planning will affect men returning from the service after the war, and for this reason Mr. Tanner was chosen. Dr. Newton will represent the viewpoint of higher education in the committee's deliberations.

The post-war committee was appointed at the last session of the legislature, and is to investigate the whole industrial and agricultural picture of the province, making recommendations for post-war development programs. Reports are to be made annually to the legislature.

Edmonton Artificer Keeps Guns Of Merchant Fleet "Ship Shape"

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, July 2.—(CP)—Chief Ordnance Artificer M. J. "Jack" McLean of Edmonton and Halifax, doing a big job in a small workshop overlooking the busy harbor, repairing and maintaining the guns of Canada's merchant ships.

He has been to sea in the present war as well as in the First Great War, and he would rather be at sea now. But his job is to his guns, and to do that he has to stay ashore.

"We fixed so many guns during my naval career that I'm sure I could strip and assemble from the smallest to the biggest with my eyes closed," he said in an interview.

"The guns have to be just so for the gunners on merchant ships. As a rule they have only one—perhaps two—uses, and many lives and valuable cargo depend upon their accuracy."

"We have a good bunch of boys at work, and I wouldn't want to see anything happen to one of them, so I make sure their guns are flawless."

(AP)—American planes from nearby bases are blasting Japanese installations in the central Solomon Islands, helping Allied forces close in on the enemy's important Munda base. A United States Navy communiqué revealed that American planes, operating from Guadalcanal, blasted the Japanese Vila base on Kolombangara Island and Lambert plantation, several miles east of the Munda airfield, on Thursday. In land time, Lambert is believed to be the site of Japanese military headquarters for the area.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, July 2

—American assault troops, supported by smashing aerial and artillery bombardment, closed in toward the Japanese jungle base at Munda on New Georgia Island today after sapping enemy air strength in the Solomon by destruction of at least 123 enemy planes.

The Allied onslaught under command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur knocked out one enemy battery after another, according to dispatches from South Pacific headquarters, and so weakened the main Japanese aerial strength that the enemy must now draw on other areas of the island to make effective defense of New Georgia.

Ilsey Makes Report Savings of $850,000,000 For Canadians This Year Seen Under Price Control

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsey said in the House of Commons last night that had price been allowed to rise in 1942 as in 1917 the public would have had to pay out an additional $850,000,000 during the past year.

"Should prices remain stabilized through 1943, instead of continuing to rise, the $850,000,000 through 1943, an additional saving of $850,000,000 might accrue to consumers this year," the minister said.

He made his statement as the house opened discussion on finance department estimates under the war appropriation bill. The first item being $13,000,000 for price board administration. The price board is in charge of price ceiling operation.

$143,532,000 TOTAL
Total item for the finance department in the $3,800,000,000 was approximately for the current year is $143,532,000.

Mr. Ilsey's statement on the price board item was followed by a lively discussion in which the allowance of sugar for canning was mentioned. Mr. R. B. Hanson (Prog. Con. York-Sunbury) referred to the shutting down of some New Brunswick paper mills because woodcutters could get as much as $6 a cord more for their lumber in the United States than the price fixed by the Price Board in Canada.

Mr. Ilsey said he was satisfied that without the price control policy instituted in 1941, government expenditures would be higher than at present and it would be practically impossible to finance them on a sound basis.

Discussing the general civilian supply position, Mr. Ilsey said that levels of consumption in Canada have so far been maintained on the average, and the consumption of "many common items" is actually considerably higher than in pre-war years.

There has, of course, been an important enlargement and a desirable redistribution of consumer purchasing power. The previous standards of living were relatively low, and the previous standards of living were relatively high. Mr. Ilsey continued.

EXPLAINS DIFFICULTIES
"This accounts for many of the difficulties that consumers are experiencing in obtaining supplies."

"In many cases quantities available to civilian consumers have been well maintained or even increased, but the added demands are so great that there appears to be a very short supply."

Mr. Ilsey instanced jam, jelly, and marmalades which were difficult to obtain in retail stores. Before the war, production of these items was about 40,000,000 pounds. By 1942, production had risen to more than 70,000,000 pounds, and of this total some 15,000,000 pounds were used by the armed forces and other priority users. But the total available for civilians still was higher than in pre-war times.

"There had been a large measure of success in the fight against inflation," Mr. Ilsey said. He said he wanted to see the government was over-confident about the future. A "crucial and difficult" testing time lay ahead.

The primary purpose of controls imposed in 1941 was to stabilize the cost of living and this was the board's outstanding achievement.

SLIGHT INDEX RISE
The official cost-of-living index has risen only 1.5 per cent from Nov. 1, 1941, to May 1, 1942. In the United States, in this same period, the cost of living rose about 12 per cent. During the same period of the last year, the Canadian index rose 2.5 per cent. It was estimated that for each one point gain in the index, the Canadian consuming public paid about $2,000,000 additional yearly.

The price ceiling policy had imposed restraint on civilians, but Mr. Ilsey said he believed they were less than had been anticipated. Fears had been expressed that business could not continue to operate but commercial bankruptcies in 1942 were 900 against 882 in 1941. Price control was set up in December 1941.

It had been claimed an "army" of officials would be needed to maintain the system. The price board staff had increased from 154 on Nov. 30, 1941 to 2,521 on March 31, and the cost of administration from $1,436,968 in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1942 to $3,377,485 for the year ended March 31, 1943.

These figures were not great in relation to the task in hand, the minister said.

He added that the major items of cost, as indicated in a price board report tabled by the government, would be subsidies and trading losses paid by the commodity prices stabilization corp., a subsidiary of the board, and which actually amounted to $60,000,000 from the inception of the ceiling to March 31. Outlays in this period were estimated at $120,000,000 for the present fiscal year.

Payment of subsidies and bulk purchases had played a vital part in ensuring a supply of essential food and services, and protecting the standards of living of those receiving low or moderate incomes.

PRICES BOARD ESTIMATES
He said the total of his estimate for the Price Board for the fiscal year broken down as follows:
Salaries $20,000,000, travelling expenses $20,000,000, printing and stationery $10,000,000, telephone $200,000, telegrams $100,000, post $100,000, advertising $500,000, salaries $160,000, postage $250,000.

Ottawa Orders 3rd Compulsory Labor Transfer ments, lighter and leather goods, scrap metal, junk and waste.

2. Raising of special livestock like race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets.

3. Flower-growing.

4. Horticultural services, except tree surgery.

5. Leather, currying, finishing, cleaning and tanning.

6. Brewing.

7. Manufacturing in any of the following lines: for goods, robes and dressing goods; neckties and scarves; curtains and draperies; metal household furniture; brass and metal furniture of other kinds, except mattresses and bedsteads; metal office furniture; rattan and glassware; cigar boxes and fancy boxes of wood, mirror and picture frames; perfumes, cosmetics and other toilet preparations; and hand bags and small leather goods.

The age groups subject to military call-up and hence subject to the transfer order along with youths of 16, 17 and 18, are set forth by the minister as:

"Every man who was born in any year from 1917 to 1924, and who has reached age 18, regardless of whether married or single; and to every man born from 1925 to 1934, who on July 15, 1940, was unmarried, or was then a widower with no children, even if such a man since married; and also to every man in a man who has become a widower since July 15, 1940, and has no children now living; as well as to men who since that date have been divorced or judicially separated."

PENSIONER FINED

A New Westminster pensioner had been fined for giving a driver an itinerary for delivering a load of sawdust, and under Prices Board regulations, he had been charged with paying more than the ceiling price.

"Some people can't stand authority," said Mr. Reid.

Discussing sugar, Mr. Abbott said that some sugar available totaled 100,000,000 pounds, to be divided among 2,700,000 people who applied for a total 210,000,000 pounds for that purpose.

It was decided to allocate the 100,000,000 pounds to each of the 550 local ration boards on the basis of 11.24 pounds per applicant, leaving it to the boards to had cooperated "quite readily" with the regulations.

"Over 3,000 men have been interviewed under the earlier orders, and many of them have already been transferred to higher priority work," said the minister.

The cases of a considerable additional number are still under review.

"From the reports we have received it would appear that compliance has been quite general."

The procedure for men affected by the third order is the same as for the earlier orders.

CALL PERSONALLY

"Men must call personally at an employment and selective service office, unless by reason of distance that is impossible," Mr. Mitchell said.

In the latter case, men may write to the nearest office.

"No employer may continue to engage one of the men covered by the order, in the employment now held, beyond July 15, except under special permit from national selective service."

Under the first two orders men discharged after active service with the armed forces during the present war here not subject to transfer and men with dependents were not required to accept transfers which would involve a change of residence.

"The same practices will apply in the case of the recent third order," the minister said.

PROTECTED ON WAGES

"Men required to accept alternative employment will be protected in their wages."

"If a man's earnings are reduced, all men will have the right to appeal to a court of referees should they object to accepting employment in which they may be directed."

Suspect Is Held In Dual Shooting Of Farmer, Wife

COCHIBANE, Aug. 2.—(CP)—Police said yesterday they had arrested Wilfred Desroches and were holding him in connection with a double shooting at Driftwood, 20 miles west of here, June Baptiste.

Desroches, a farmer and his wife were the victims.

They said Desroches was being held on a charge of attempted murder.

One of the greatest causes of complaint was that one local ration district distributed on a different basis than the adjoining district, he said.

NUMBER UNDETERMINED

Mr. Mitchell said in his statement that "how many men may be covered by this third order has not been determined, but we have no fear of anticipating the same ready compliance as in the case of the first and second orders."

Men covered in the earlier orders distribute in whatever ratio they desired but urging them to treat rural dwellers more generously than urban dwellers.

One of the greatest causes of complaint was that one local ration district distributed on a different basis than the adjoining district, he said.

Mitchell Declares:

Peace Conference to Decide Fate of Japanese in Canada

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—Ultimate disposition of the Japanese minority in Canada likely would be decided at the peace conference when the war was over, Labor Minister Mitchell told the House of Commons Wednesday night.

He was replying to requests from many British Columbia members for a statement of government policy on post-war handling of the Japanese problem.

Several of the B.C. members demanded a declaration that the Japanese would be repatriated in Japan when the war is over, and all declared the problem should not be returned to British Columbia to handle it alone.

Mr. Mitchell said it was fairly certain that this problem would be a subject of international contention when the peace was arranged. Meanwhile, it was the government's policy to keep Japanese in the east but the majority were most anxious to return to their homes as self-supporting as possible.

AGAINST DEPORTATION

Angus MacInnis (C.P.F. Van. cover) spoke against repatriation, which, he said, would actually be deportation on exile for many of them.

A. W. Scott (Ind. Comm. Alberta) advocated repatriation and said he would subscribe to separation of the western provinces from Eastern Canada if the problem were thrown back upon British Columbia.

The discussion arose in connection with the whole on labor estimates in the war appropriation for the current fiscal year.

Item of $300,000 for removal of enemy aliens from British Columbia coastal areas. The item passed just before adjournment of the house.

H. C. Green (Prog. Con. Vancouver South), claimed that British Columbia people had been used as pawns in dealings between Canada and Japan, and added that the Japanese must be considered the problem of all Canada, not just British Columbia alone.

The Dominion government had failed to give up its policy of the movement of Japanese to British Columbia, although such movement had been checked by legislation of other Dominions.

Acts passed by British Columbia to keep down Japanese immigration were disclosed by the Dominion Year after year.

British Columbia members had pleaded in the Commons for action to exclude Japanese but without success.

MUST NOT 'OFFEND'

The excuse had been "Japan must not be offended," Scott said, but from Canada to Japan found its of Japan had parents residing in British Columbia.

When the war with Japan began, there were 10,000 Japanese in British Columbia. The larger number remained there, although moved from protected areas.

Those who had been sent to other provinces were there only temporarily and would be returned to British Columbia after the war.

Some younger Japanese were at length in re-establish themselves in the east but the majority were most anxious to return to their homes as self-supporting as possible, said Mr. Green.

Mr. Mitchell said Japanese already been repatriated in exchange for Canadians.

The house approved the $300,000 item covering the cost of moving Japanese from protected areas, and passed a resolution of an appropriation for day nurseries to accommodate the children of women engaged in war work.

Comrades in Arms

Thanks to Premier Tojo, functions are being staged in Edmonton today which are designed to celebrate jointly the natal days of the United States and the Dominion. When in his wisdom or un wisdom that assuming barbarian saw fit to attack the Republic as well as the British Empire, he set in train events which have led to the coming here of the greatest war-time spectacle these functions appropriate. The joint-demonstrations are an outcome of Pearl Harbor.

These functions will not of course—if he ever hears about them—be of great interest to the gentleman who thus inspired them. What they signify will interest him and his associates through more kindly letters. For what is happening in Edmonton today symbolizes the merging of the forces and resources of the Republic and the Empire for the specific and definite purpose of ending once and for all of Tojo and the policies of assault and robbery of which he is the chief exponent in the Pacific.

While these ceremonies are being held in Edmonton, up in the Aleutian Islands a squadron of Canada's air force is engaged with the United States air force in blasting the Japanese garrisons and making the tinge of our airmen is a fighting force and also a token force. It is the token that Canada does not intend to be a bystander and war in the Pacific. The Dominion is represented in the Aleutians—and in Burma as well—it will be represented wherever else the Japanese have been fought by the forces of such kind and strength as may be required. Canada will be there, as Britain will be there, when the time comes to reduce the munitions-producing centres of Japan to ash and debris.

That is the meaning of the joint-celebrations which are taking place in Edmonton today. These are not the kind of common and unchangeable purpose of the Republic and the Dominion to bring Tojo and his organization and his schemes to utter and everlasting ruin.

CKUA's Radio License

The arrangement under which the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has granted a commercial license to the University of Alberta station CKUA is unprecedented in the traditions of commercial broadcasting.

CKUA has been in operation for many years and has been a successful station in the province. Recently it spent $20,000 to increase its power.

In order to become self-supporting, it then applied to the directors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for a commercial license. This application was opposed by CFTM on the ground that the new commercial license would take business away from them.

Whereupon the Corporation granted the required license to two provisions. First, that CKUA should not receive more than $25,000 a year if it could get it, and, secondly, that no business should be taken away from the other local stations.

This restrictive arrangement has been protested by Mrs. Cora Casselman, M.P., and will be reconsidered by the Corporation board.

Mrs. Casselman's protest is eminently reasonable. It should and will have the support of every progressive-minded person in this district.

In the first place, there cannot possibly be two kinds of commercial licenses. Either CKUA is entitled to the same treatment as is not entitled to it. If it is entitled to it, any restriction on the operation of that station is illegal and oppressive because it violates the recognized principle of competitive business.

In the second place, these restrictions are a limit to the educational activities of CKUA, something which is beyond the capacity of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Surely education, particularly over the radio, should be free and should not be limited in order to protect the profits of purely commercial competitors.

The arrangement is inequitable and unfair. CKUA should have equal rights with other local stations.

A Great Sea Victory

Prime Minister Churchill's speech in the bomb-bombed Guild Hall on Wednesday had a singularly appropriate background. About the greatest of the splendid and historic buildings shattered more than two years ago in the international attacks of the Luftwaffe, the building could be more fitting or more impressive for the message of good cheer and confidence he was able to give to Britain and the freeworld loving people of the world? To the millions who live in misery and humiliation under the tyranny of the gauleiter across the Channel the words must be used to uplift them and to reassure them that let them listen to the broadcast or read the newspaper accounts, the same profound and brave British spirit came through the speaker and the writer. For the future of war has turned, and how bright the prospect of victory—and of enduring peace—seems for the future of justice.

The most arresting passage

In which Mr. Churchill told of the "total defeat" of the U-boat attack in May, the more heartening because he has never glossed over reverses in our own history to tell good news. Against the well-founded warnings sounded during the winter that the enemy was preparing for a campaign of unrestricted slaughter and destruction in the sea lanes, the story of May and June is almost incredibly good.

In these two months there has been a variable "sea" of the submarine, 30 having been destroyed. May alone possibly more. Since the middle of that month "scarcely a single merchant ship has been sunk in the North Atlantic." The ship loss record for June was the best in the 16 months of war. Ship construction in June had been from seven to ten times as great as the tonnage sunk in the month.

This is a victory ranking with the defence of Stalingrad, the destruction of the Axis army in Tunisia, and the battle of Midway.

It may be that future months will bring less welcome news. That must always be kept in mind, for the submarine is an invisible weapon against which there is no defence. But that they were counted and felled at the very time they were more numerous than ever before, and that ground for hope that the means and methods which accomplished this splendid victory will be able to deal with the U-boats in the months to come.

Senator Count Edouardo Poma-Casselli, by grace of Mussolini, wants all citizens of the United Nations forbidden to enter Italy for 100 years after the war. Does he think it will take that long to put the country in shape for visitors?

Ontario's Deputy Attorney General foresees a crime wave sweeping this continent. He is right. He is also right, right, or wrong. The safe course is to assume that he is right, and build up more numerous than ever before, and that ground for hope that the means and methods which accomplished this splendid victory will be able to deal with the U-boats in the months to come.

It can be true a child discovers accidentally how he feels a tantrum can be like like big hand enough and screams loud enough he doesn't have to do what he's protesting against doing. If this happens often enough, tantrums become a trading medium.

I feel that growing a cactus is a private job. It is discriminated against. In the 1940s my son, Richard, was in the army and he was told that if he didn't give me any special consideration I can remember years when I stood in the line for a cactus. I had a lot of seeds in tin-crushed cans. I don't know what you have got the idea of. I don't like fighting for the civil liberties of a cactus.

Careful Training Given Prospective Canadian Army Officers

Officer candidates at the Officers' Selection and Appraisal Centre at Three Rivers, Que., are given a variety of problems to solve as part of their training. In addition to strictly military drill. At top left a class in voice control—important to an officer who must be able to give commands clearly and distinctly—in action. Lower left a squad of candidates goes over the assault course in full battle kit. Top right pictures a candidate facing one of the problems designed to test his speed of perception and reaction, a platoon marching three ways at once, which he must get back into squad formation without halting the men. Centre right illustrates the work of the Officers' Selection and Appraisal Board, as Col. G. F. Johnston interviews Sgt. H. F. Fitch (right) before his final appraisal. Lower right shows a work party, complete with brooms, getting their orders from a fellow candidate while an officer looks on—both to appraise the instructor and to note the reaction of the squad to fatigue duty. All training is carried on under the constant observation of the appraisal officers.

Past neat rows of barracks buildings at Camp Breckenridge, Ky., marches a contingent of German prisoners of war. This camp, one of several throughout U.S., houses some 2,000 men who are guarded by 500 Army soldiers. Germans and Italians are generally put in separate camps.

Without Modern Equipment

Far from the modern equipment of the S.C.A.F. stations they worked on in Canada, these maintenance men of a Canadian fighter unit in Alaska use any available means to carry on their work as speedily as possible. LAC. R. J. Croome of Stratford, Ont., sits at a "hugger" stand for LAC. Don Harper of Stouffville, Ont., while LAC. Fred McIsaac of Simcoe, Ont., looks on from the comparative stability of a pile of boxes.—(R.C.A.F. Photo.)
